1. My kingdom come, my will be done; that of my father's is. For I've become that will of my father, that he will'd me to become, it: HIM! He is the kingdom I've entered. I entered I have; my kingdom will now be done on the earth, as it is in "heaven," for I've brought it; I bring it now in to the earth, to be in it, I am it. I "establish" it everywhere, for I am, everywhere, "he" is; for there's only one of us now, and I'm him'it like you are, if you're one with him, me, that we are. There's only one, and I'm one.
2. Will you be one reader hearer and enter your kingdom that's my kingdom, that of our father's now open? For another one comes, not. Will you be the "comer" now? Will you "split" the skies, coming from earth to heaven, to be "earth'd" no more of, but bringing'establishing the earth ones here that heaven contain in fullness knowing it now, bursting the seams of righteousness, not not?
3. Will you be the "kingdom comer" in righteousness altogether? Indignation not as these words, but pure love; they are, brought to you in, you doing now "with" them what you please, not; but what will you cut'cast asunder, not, with them; but doing'creating what now, the creator? Being it?, him who made you?, what you are? "Really" are?

4. I love you. Let me count the ways; how many words have I given you/thee now?
